Whitbeck Brothers Win Titles in Junior and Boys' National Indoor Tennis Tournament

Loomis Institute Star, and Wood, Runners-Up in Doubles

Elder Whitbeck Victor Over Kuhn in Thrilling Battle Against Odds, While Brother Brainerd Easily Disposes of Hill; Appel and Van Ryn Win Doubles

By Fred Hawthorne

John F. W. Whitbeck, of Loomis Institute, Windsor, Conn., won the national indoor junior sipgles lawn tennis championship of the United States yesterday, and his younger brother, Brainerd H. Whitbeck jr., won the boys' national indoor singles title, at the 7th Regiment Armory. In addition, John, paired with Charles M. Wood jr., finished as runners-up for the national junior doubles championship, which was won by Kenneth Appel and John Van Ryn.

Point Score and

Stroke Analysis

In consideration of the above facts, f the Loomis Institute brass band doesn't meet the Whitherk brothers at the Windsor station when they return to school and escort them to the campus, and if Principal Batchelder deem't present the freedom of the school to John and Brainerd, and if Jobo Ross and Benton Deming, the secand string fellows on the team, don't get up on their hind legs and give the

on their hind legs and give the ons a cheer, then everything's with the world.

Whitbeck won his match from it Kuhn, of George Washingthe School, by a score of 6-1, Whitbeck the control of the control s-6, 6-3, 7-5, after a thrilling to a stain at great odds and by an exclon of courage and tenacity rarely lied on a tennis court. Brainerd theek wou the boys' championship far less difficulty, defeating young solm T. Hill, of Boston, by a score—1, 2-6, 6-4. Appel and Van won the doubles title by defeating theek and Wood in straight sets, at 7-5, 6-3. Whitheck plainly show the exhausting effects of his terstruggle against Kuhn.

Loomis student started the serven the singles match and won the ing game. He broke through n's service for the second, after ce" had been called twice, and conditions the service for the second, after the net to cut off his opponent's ras by clever volleying. Kuhn aged to win the fifth game, but theek won the next two, giving him first set at 6-1. He made sleven ments to Kuhn's two, and fewer

Chop Stroke Effective

Kuhn had been making use of a chop roke almost entirely in the first ses-on of play, and while this was offecsion of play, and while this was effective at times, he made the tactical error of employing it indiscriminately, no matter what Whitbeck's position in the court. This made it possible for the Loomis atar to close in often on the slow, soft ball and finish off the points. But Kuhn changed his tactics at the start of the second set, putting more pace into his ground strokes, working his well-topped service to the limit and occasionally lobbing when he had drawn his rival well in toward the net. The local youth worked up a lead of a -0, cleanly outplaying whitbeck and forcing the latter to cover a groat amount of court as he raced after shots that cut the side lines beautifully.

Whitbeck made a stand at this stage.

the rally, bringing the games to ut then dropped his own service tenth, the last point on a cobtly fault, giving Kuhn the second 6-4. This squared the match we Kuhn renewed confidence.

Yet, in spite of these faults, in spite Yet, in spite of these faults, in spite of a service that often threatened to cause his downfall, Whitbeck won the last two sets by sheer fighting courage. Tired to the point of exhaustion in the latter stages the Loomis lad raised his game to heights of brilliance that Kuhn could not match.

Nerved for Decisive Test

Nerved for Decisive Test

In the fifth and last set Kuhn appeared to have the match well in hand, leading at 3—1, but once more Whitbeck, nerving himself for the decisive test, forced his way to the net position, following in behind splendidly forceful forehand drives until he led at 5—4. A keenly fought deuce game followed on Kuhn's strong service, Whitbeck being three times within match point, only to finally lose the game and bring the score to 5—ali.

It seemed impossible for Whitbeck to hold to the pace, yet he did that, and it was perhaps because of this very will to win" on the part of the coming champion that served to flurry Kuhn, who had fought so well up to this stage, only to weaken badly in the last two games. Taking his own service in the eleventh, Whitbeck broke through his opponent's delivery, to win the twelfth game, the match and the championship. Kuhn lost the final point by veileying a short return into

Had Whitbeek used more decisiveness in his volleying and overhead play he would have saved himself a tremendous amount of energy and at the same time saved many points that eventually went to Kuhn. "Wulle" not only knows the game but can impart a few of its secrets to others not so skillful. Since arriving in this country some years back, "Wulle" has been in hiding as intractor on several private courses on Long Island. This is his first connection with a live organization, and he has certainly jumped to the fore in getting the Winged Foot assignment. It was expected that a home-bred prowold be appointed. In fact, this was announced as the policy of the Winged Foot organization, but the committee found several difficulties in the way of getting the certain home breds they wanted and finally gave unter a time to make the prominent native professionals are too found of competing in open tournaments in all parts of the land to suit a club that a looking more for instruction than advertisement. One difficulty was that the prominent native professionals are too fond of competing in open tournaments in all parts of the land to suit a club that is looking more for instruction than advertisement. Another difficulty was that most of the good home breds already possessed fairly lucrative and important jobs and were not available for the Winged Foot place. New York University and Cornell contested the last match in the annual championship series of the Intercollegiate Chess League, at the rooms of the Marshall Chess Club, thereby bringing to a conclusion the twenty-fourth meeting, the chief honors of which had been carried off on

Pittsburgh Panthers Defeat Stanford Eleven by 16 to?

Hewitt and Flanagan Star in Easterners' Vice Over Coast Eleven; Warner's Team H. Californians Scoreless Until the Final Per-

PALO ALTO, Calif., Dec. 30.—The University of Pittsburg umphed over Leland Stanford University here to-day in their intertional clash, 16 to 7, before a crowd of 10,000 in the stadium, located in natural amphitheater, which seats 58,000. The unsettled weather, rain most of the week, held back the attendance.

It was the second defeat handed the Far West by an Eastern team during the week, as West Virginia triumphed over Gonzaga at San Diego on Christ-the score 10 to 0 in favor of the E mas, 21 to 13. One more intersectional contest remains to be played, that be- Panthers, tween Penn State and Southern California at Pasadena on New Year's Day. The Pitt machine, with Hewitt as Duluth developed a little mermaid likely to be heard from in Miss Gurneth Robins, fourteen years old. Under difficult conditions she swam 220 yards in 3:14 lately, and there are very few lassies of her age who can touch this time with everything favorable.

Pennsylvania University has act January 27 as the date for its annual set of interscholastic aquatic events in the college pool, and the fixture is looked forward to with more interest than usual, for there are a number of crack watermen in the Eastern high school field at present, and they will try conclusions for the first time at the Penn meet.

Of the twenty-four tournaments held by the Intercollegiate Chess League, Pennsylvania has won 11, Cornell 8, City College 2 and Massachusetts Tech 1. In addition, Pennsylvania tied once with Cornell and once with Brown University.

Appended are the individual scores

There is keen speculation in aquatic circles concerning the probable outcome of the annual water polo tournament for the intercollegiate championship. On paper Princeten, Columbia and C. C. N. Y. appear very closely matched; Pennsylvania displayed unlooked for strength in the opening game with C. C. N. Y. and may be hard in the running if the Quaker players develop more effective team work. Yale is said to have exceptionally good material and is dangerous. Never were prospects better for keen competition and the race for the pennant promises to be the most interesting ever witnessed.
